Introduction : The introduction of your extended abstract should state the nature of the research gaps you are addressing and why you are studying it. It should provide background information about the work and its significance while highlighting other relevant literature and specifying how it relates to or differs from your work. You should also discuss the scope and limitations of your study in the introduction.

Objectives : Objectives of the study should be clearly defined

Methodology : Provide a full description of your general research design, as well as the specific methods and procedures used in your research study. Describe your theoretical approach or type of analysis, and discuss the types of sources (primary or secondary texts, interviews, surveys, personal notes, etc.) and analysis tools (including statistical method/s) used.

Results : Describe the results in a logical framework providing diagrams, charts, and illustrations as appropriate for your discipline.

Discussion : The purpose of the discussion is to interpret and describe the significance of your findings in light of what was already known about the research problem being investigated, and to explain any new understanding or fresh insights about the problem after you've taken the findings into consideration.

Conclusion : The conclusion is intended to help the reader understand why your research should matter to them and provide a synthesis of arguments presented in the paper to show how these converge to address the research problem and the overall objectives of your study. Also state your conclusions in clear, simple language.

References : References should be cited within your extended abstract using APA 7th edition (American Psychological Association). Examples of reference formats are given here. For additional information on formatting references, refer to the 7th edition of the publication manual of the American Psychological Association.

Extended Abstract Length: Extended abstracts should be at least three pages, but not more than five pages in length including the references. Word limit is 1,300 – 1,500 words.

Tables & Figures: Tables & figures must be created using the Microsoft Word or Word Perfect table functions and included as part of the text immediately after the first point of reference. DO NOT place them at the end of your extended abstract. For improved readability, keep your tables as simple as possible.

All the tables, images and figures should be centered. Figures and images should be numbered and figure legends should be placed under the figure or image; as for the tables, they should also be numbered and the table header should be placed at the top. If the data were extracted from other sources please denote the source courtesy immediately below the table.
